Research in Action

Reaching All Learners Through Student-centered Assessment

Explore student-centered assessment practice in a standards-based grading and reporting system with teachers at P.K. Yonge. Learn about the development of classroom assessment and feedback practices that support all learners in understanding their progress toward the mastery of academic standards.

Participants in this event will be engaged in:

- Discussing issues of practice
- Observing lessons
- Examining evidence of student learning
- Discussing implications for designing assessment systems

January 25, 2018 --- 8:30am-2:00pm

Registration Deadline: January 11, 2018

Research in Action days assist classroom teachers and educational leaders in thinking deeply about their instructional practice. A unique professional learning experience, participants directly observe teaching practice, interview teachers about their approaches, and learn new strategies. In our quest to find answers for our own students, we share our successes, our challenges, and our questions with Research in Action participants.
