

Sugarberry

Celtis laevigata

- This very large, broad, fast-growing deciduous North American native tree has a rounded vase crown with spreading, pendulous branches.
- The medium-textured, light green leaves have a long, slender tip and turn bright yellow in fall, being very showy in some years.
- The grey-brown to silvery bark has some warty projections or corky ridges, making it attractive and aesthetic in the wintertime.
